Erica Peréz-Gotay is a New York City-based performer. Growing up she competed with her studio for 10 years. She graduated from Oklahoma City University with a Bachelor of Performing Arts in Dance Performance. She has also studied many years with well-known artists in New York City such as Michelle Dorrance, Jimmy Tate, Tracie Stanfield, and Jim Cooney. Additionally, she is an alumna of Broadway Dance Center's Professional Semester Internship, the American Tap Dance Foundation's "Tap City", and Broadway Theatre Project. Erica was most recently seen A Chorus Line as Diana Morales, along with other productions at Theatre By the Sea. Other favorite roles include Stephanie in Saturday Night Fever, Elf: The Broadway Musical, Pippin, and RWS Entertainment production of "Dance, Dance, Dance: America" at the Music Box Theatre of Hersheypark, where she was the dance captain. Miss Erica's classes focus on breaking down and perfecting the basics, stamina and strength, pushing her students to their greatest potential, and FUN! She believes the most fundamental part of being a dancer is loving it. Miss Erica is excited to be returning to Project Dance for another year with her favorite hard-working, passionate students!
